Who Are We?

The Kansas Association of Conservation Districts (KACD) is an organization representing the 105 county conservation districts in Kansas.

KACD has been active for over 50 years in promoting the conservation of our natural resources. The 525 volunteer district supervisors and over 150 district employees recognize the need to provide scholarships and other recognition to promote individual stewardship efforts.

What We Do

The KACD Conservation Education and Youth Committee sponsors area and state speech contests, state poster, essay, limerick, and photo contests, and the Envirothon for Kansas youth

In addition, the Conservation and Education Committee sponsors the program explained in this brochure. The program is designed to provide a conservation legacy for individuals concerned about our natural resources and interested in providing resources to promote wise use of these resources.

The Program

The KACD Recognition and Honors Program was established at the request of natural resource leaders. The program will provide scholarships for college students enrolled in conservation related courses. As the program grows, it may recognize outstanding individuals in natural resources protection and conservation.
